

Endowed Courses

1. Overview

Endowed courses are established through an endowment from a sponsoring company, covering the course's expenses. The course registration process and credits are the same as other courses in the same category (refer to the department's course list).

While regular campus lectures are academic and theoretical, endowed chair courses focus on practical and pragmatic knowledge. We regularly invite professionals who are actively engaged in the industry to share their expertise and discuss real-life issues and decision-making. Students attending these lectures are expected to actively engage, share their opinions, and think critically.
